RECI Contractor of the Year 2009

We are delighted to announce that we have been named a Regional Winner at the inaugural Registered Electrical Contractors of Ireland (RECI) Awards ceremony, Friday, 20th March at which RTE celebrity Duncan Stewart presented the award.

The RECI Awards are supported by Hibernian Aviva and Arachas Corporate Brokers and represents Ireland's largest initiative to promote electrical safety. It recognises 'bright sparks' in the electrical contracting industry like Pedreschi Electrical & Alarms and encourages higher standards throughout the sector.

Having been selected from all the entrants in the Dublin region, we were awarded for our industry expertise and commitment to electrical safety. Commenting on the big win, Dubliner Daniel Pedreschi, said: "It is a great honour to be named Regional Winner and to be recognised by my industry peers. I am so grateful for this accolade and hope that other electrical contractors in Kildare and Dublin are motivated by the RECI awards to improve their standards of electrical safety".

Commenting on the RECI awards and Pedreschi's win, Michael Garvey of Hibernian Aviva said, "There were so many excellent entries from Dublin and Kildare for the RECI awards and it was great to see electrical contracting firms in the area working hard to improve electrical safety standards in the industry. At Hibernian Aviva we recognise the efforts made by all the entrants in the RECI awards and congratulate Pedreschi Electrical & Alarms on their win. The awards have truly showcased his expertise and commitment to electrical safety".

Guy Percival, Director, Arachas Corporate Brokers said, "Arachas is delighted to be involved in the RECI awards. The firm exemplifies dedication to excellence and high standards and is a great reward to all his hard work".

RECI hope that this award scheme raises awareness among consumers across the country of the importance of using only fully-registered, competent and certified electrical contractors to carry out all electrical installations".

RECI—Register of Electrical Contractors Of Ireland

David McGloughlin, RECI General Manager further commented on the awards and said: “The RECI awards have proven to be a great success. Electrical contractors from all over the country entered the awards scheme revealing a healthy electrical contracting industry in Ireland. It is our hope at RECI that this award scheme raises awareness among consumers across the country of the importance of using only fully-registered, competent and certified electrical contractors to carry out all electrical installations.

About RECI

RECI was established by the leading contractor representative bodies in 1992 to self-regulate the sector and improve the standards of electrical installation work. Since then it has been to the forefront in promoting industry best practice and, as such, is ideally placed to act as an Electrical Safety Supervisory Body in overseeing the new Government mandatory registration scheme for electrical contractors.

Our Company Belief

We take pleasure and pride in our work. We instill this pride in our employees, which creates a friendly working environment.

We believe that happy staff lead in turn to happy customers.

Our customers are our biggest asset, our reputation is proof of this fact.

Our Goals

Duncan Stewart and
Daniel Pedreschi

We endeavor to remain professional and dependable with high standards and only quality workmanship carried out. We supply only top quality materials.

In the ever changing world of technology we strive to keep up with the changes and we place a lot of emphases on training.

We carry an extensive technical library which serves us well and gives us the confidence when carrying out maintenance contracts.

We hold a letter of exemption from the PSA in order to carry out intruder alarm installations. We hope to complete this process and have appointed EQA to carry out testing and verification that we have reached the EN 50131 and SR40, the industry standards in this area.

If we can be of service to you please do not hesitate to contact us.
